GOP CANDIDATES GET TOGETHER IN STRATEGY MEETS

Rival Headliners Lead Their Tickets Into Chicago Area

Chicago, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Republican congressional candidates held a strategy conference today as the rival headliners—Scott W. Lucas and Richard J. Lyons—led their tickets into the Chicago mass meetings featuring the final two weeks of the off-year campaign.

A. K. Stiles, Republican state chairman, called his party's nominees for seats in congress to a luncheon meeting with the intention of synchronizing their espousal of issues for the November 8 election.

Lyons, G. O. P. senatorial candidate, was slated to attend the session, along with his running mates for congressmen-at-large and a majority of the nominees for the 25 district seats.

While Lucas, Democratic aspirant for the senate, and party chiefs planned another series of organization meetings, Lyons sent Lucas another challenge to debate.

Challenging Letter
The challenging letter was addressed to Lucas at the penthouse of the Morrison hotel, where Kelly-Nash Democratic leaders have held meetings in the past.

"Are the reports true," Lyons asked, "that, now that you are in Chicago, you are in the same political bed in the very 'piratical penthouse' with the men you denounced last spring as unclean and corrupt? Shall I continue to address you there?"

Both senatorial candidates had a heavy schedule of mass meetings, with Lyons planning to make some speeches on street corners. Lucas, Governor Horner and Mayor Kelly are booked to appear together on the west side tonight.

Congressional Front
On the congressional front, Republicans seek to increase their present holdings of six of the 25 district seats in the Illinois delegation. Five of them are downstate. In Cook county, the united Democrats have nine of the 10 seats, several of them in districts that have been giving overwhelming Democratic majorities in recent elections.

In addition to the Evanston-Lake county district, the Republicans hold congressional seats in the three across the northern end of the state and in the Peoria and Bloomington districts.

High spots in some of the downstate districts which elected Democrats in 1936:

14th, Rock Island-Monmouth—Rep. Chester Thompson, three-term from Rock Island, is opposed by Anton J. Johnson, Macomb dairyman.

15th, Galesburg—R. B. Chipfield of Canton, whose father was a Republican congressman, is attempting to unseat Lewis L. Boyer of Quincy.

Woman Candidate
18th, Kankakee-Danville—Miss Jessie Sumner, Iroquois county judge, is waging an active campaign against Rep. James A. Meeks of Danville.

19th, Champaign-Decatur—Hugh M. Rigney of Arthur, elected in 1936 as a Democrat, is opposed again by William H. Wheat, of Rantoul.

21st, Springfield—Frank W. Ries of Carlinville, a Democratic first term, is opposed by former Congressman Frank M. Ramey of Hillsboro.

24th, Harrisburg—Claude V. Parsons, veteran Democrat from Golconda, is running against R. R. Randolph of Harrisburg, a Republican legislator.

Calcium Said Secret Key to a Long Life

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A new secret of long life—that it depends partly on the calcium your ancestors ate—was announced to the National Academy of Sciences here today.

Prof. H. C. Sherman of Columbia university told the academy, which opened its fall meeting today, that if a family is fed a rich calcium diet, the results add up in the second and later generations.

The amount of calcium in the descendants is increased. They live longer.

CONCERT CAMPAIGN BROUGHT TO CLOSE SATURDAY EVENING

The campaign for season memberships to the three concerts on the Dixon Concert League series came to a successful close Saturday night at 10 o'clock at campaign headquarters at the Dixon Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. I. B. Hoefler, general chairman, today thanked all those who assisted in the campaign.

Mrs. Hoefler stated that since it was impossible to reach all who support musical events in the community, the committee became responsible for a small book of season memberships. In checking over the lists it was found that several had not been contacted. These people may still have the opportunity to join.

It is to be remembered there will be no single admissions sold to any of the three concerts. The first concert will be on November 6 by the Vienna Choir Boys in the high school auditorium, 3 o'clock. The second concert will be by Percy Grainger, pianist, composer and conductor, whose program is scheduled in February. The closing concert will be announced at a little later date.

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Samuel D. Sanders, cooperative bank commissioner in the Farm Credit Administration, said today the farm cooperative system "appears to be in a stronger position than at any time in its 70 years of history."

Sanders spoke at a conference of officials of the 12th district banks for cooperatives. They gathered to discuss a "sound credit" policy.

He reported cooperative marketing had regained most of its depression losses and that cooperative membership had more than doubled in the past 10 years.

Today, he said, there are 15,573 farm cooperatives and mutual companies with a gross annual business of $2,750,000,000.

Polo Driver and Passengers Narrowly Escape Injury at Dixon Train Crossing

W. L. Heath of route 2, Polo, and five passengers, narrowly escaped being instantly killed Sunday morning about 11:15 at the Illinois Central crossing on North Galena avenue. The Heath car was struck by a southbound freight train and the rear bumper torn from the machine when the driver turned his car in the same direction the train was moving to avoid crashing into the locomotive.

Mr. and Mrs. Heath and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hanson were passengers in the car and were enroute to the vicinity of Amboy to spend the day with friends. Mr. Heath did not observe the approaching train until almost on the crossing when a blast of the locomotive whistle attracted his attention, and he suddenly swerved the car to the west to avoid crashing into the train. The car proceeded down a steep embankment but did not roll over and the front part of the locomotive tore off the rear bumper, which was the only damage to the car.

Arrest Follows Crash.
Howard Burgess, this city, was arrested by Chief of Police J. D. VanBibber at noon Sunday, following an automobile collision at the intersection of Peoria avenue and Seventh street. Driving east on Seventh street, Burgess crashed into a car proceeding south on Seventh street driven by William Donovan of Marion township. Both cars were considerably damaged and Donovan sustained head injuries. In police court Burgess was fined three dollars and costs for failure to heed the stop sign at the intersection.

Hit Freight Car.
Saturday evening at 8:45, a car driven by D. H. Burke of this city, crashed into the side of a loaded freight car at the Illinois Central crossing on Seventh street. The switch crew was operating in the yards and according to the report to the police two of the switchmen attempted to halt the car as it approached the crossing. Will Smice, a passenger in the Burke car sustained minor head injuries, and the automobile was damaged slightly.

CHARGE JARECKI WITH VIOLATION OF JUDGE'S DUTY

Cook County Official Faces Charge Brought by Women's Group

Chicago, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A complaint charging Cook County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki with illegally directing payment of more than $6,000,000 in inheritance tax fees to appraisers who did no appraising was filed today with the Chicago Bar association.

The 34-page document was filed by Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's Civic Council, who said it followed a seven months' investigation of administration of inheritance tax cases.

It alleged that in violation of the statutes Judge Jarecki "has wantonly and corruptly certified to and directed the payment of amounts in excess of $6,000,000 of public funds to his relatives, personal friends and political henchmen by labeling them 'appraisers, experts, etc.' That said so-called 'appraisers' were paid huge 'fees' without even the slightest pretext of rendering any service of any kind or nature therefor."

Called Campaign Mud
Judge Jarecki promptly declared "the present charges coming as they do within two weeks of election for state and county officers bear all the earmarks of a campaign canard and eleven-hour roorback. I do not intend to dignify by discussion or reply the ridiculous statements set forth in this document."

The judge said "it seemed strange" no one had made such charges before during his 16 years on the county court bench. He added:

"Three attorneys-general of Illinois have exercised general supervision over the assessment and collection of the inheritance taxes during that period and two of the gentlemen have been Republicans, the late Edward J. Brundage and Oscar Carlstrom."

Demo Leader
Judge Jarecki for years has been one of the leaders of the Illinois and Cook County Democratic party and in April was renominated for the judgeship with the support of Gov. Henry Horner and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney over the opposition of the Kelly-Nash party faction.

Mrs. Robertson's complaint said the Women's Civic Council, "a civic and non-political organization, has championed the cause of good government and honest elections in Chicago and Cook county and has defied and combatted every form of dishonesty, inefficiency and corruption in public office, wherever it is found, and whomsoever it affected, without any regard to either party affiliations or political involvements."

Based on Probe
It said the charges were based on an investigation of more than 11,000 inheritance tax cases filed in the county court. It declared the county judge, under the statutes, may appoint "competent" persons.

Fisherman Blasts Open Door to Hall of Fame

Salem, Ill., Oct. 24.—(AP)—William R. Holmes, ex-police commissioner, didn't knock lightly on the door of the fishing hall of fame—he blasted it open yesterday by catching two five pound bass on the single cast of an artificial bait.

Holmes, back the commonplace task of selling paint today, said he hurled a plug in the Salem country club lake yesterday and two bass struck it at the same time. There were hooks enough for both, he said, and he reeled in ten and a half pounds of fish.

Holmes awaited development of pictures today to prove his story.

FIRE THREATENS TO DESTROY CITY OF CANTON, CHINA

Canton, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Gigantic conflagration threatened to destroy this South China metropolis today as fires roared into residential districts after burning out the business sections.

Japanese dynamite squads blasted firebreaks around the burning areas in an attempt to halt the spreading flames, while foreign volunteers aided in trying to save foreign buildings.

Dynamite was the only weapon the fire-fighters could use since the blasting of Canton's reservoirs before the Chinese fled had completely disrupted water supplies.

Some small fires broke out in the international settlement on Shameen island, but were extinguished quickly and a shift of the wind carried the flames away from the island after a mile of waterfront buildings across the 50-foot creek had been destroyed.

Many buildings on the island were damaged yesterday by three terrific explosions of munitions which the Chinese had abandoned in Wongshe railway station.

The United States consulate-general suffered slight damage, plaster falling from ceilings due to the concussion when the munitions dumps went up.

The fires drove from hiding thousands of poorer Chinese, the only remnants of a population of 2,000,000 living in the metropolitan area a short time ago.

The flames failed to halt looting.

Only a small force of Japanese, estimated at 1,500, had reached the city so far and some sections were not being patrolled yet. The Japanese commander told the British consul Chinese looting would be checked with the arrival of reinforcements.

Foreign advices indicated, meanwhile, that the Japanese attack along the Canton river south of here still was in progress.

FLOOR PUT UNDER WAGES AND HOURS GIVEN A CEILING

New Federal Law Goes Into Effect With No Fanfare

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Far-reaching federal labor standards went into effect today putting a floor under the wages and a ceiling over the hours of an estimated 11,000,000 American workmen.

The regulation of virtually all persons in interstate commerce represented the broadest industrial legislation since the NRA.

In striking contrast to the fanfare and hubbub of the Blue Eagle days, however, the wage-hour law was put into operation quietly. There were no parades, no great concentration of business men in Washington.

Administrator Elmer F. Andrews took time from cleaning up a multitude of details to tell today. Birrell was arrested two weeks ago following the robbery of the Hull news stand at Amboy.

"To Protect Business"
"It's purpose is to protect business," he said, "to guard decent employers against the ruinous competitors whose only weapon is low prices based upon low wages and long hours for those who produce their goods."

"Its further purpose, and I think its most far-reaching purpose, is to assure a steady stream of purchasing power in this country."

The major provisions of the new statute are as follows:

1. A minimum wage of 25 cents an hour is established. This will be raised to 30 cents after Oct. 24, 1939, and to 40 cents after Oct. 24, 1945.

2. The maximum work week is fixed at 44 hours, to be reduced to 42 hours after Oct. 24, 1939, and to 40 hours after Oct. 24, 1940. Employment above those levels must be compensated for in cash at time and a half rates.

3. Employment is prohibited for children under 16 in a mining or manufacturing occupation, and for children under 18 in an industry declared to be hazardous. Limited employment is permitted for children 14 or 15 in other industries.

Exemptions
The act exempts either in whole or in part seasonal industries, certain agricultural occupations, professional men, executives, administrators, learners, handicapped persons and employees of companies regulated by the interstate commerce commission.

The immediate effect of the law was to clip a few hours from the

FIND EVIDENCE OF RED ACTIVITIES IN MINNESOTA PARTY

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) of the House committee investigating un-American activities told a group of Minnesotans in a telegram today that evidence indicated Communists had "permeated" the Farmer-Labor party.

He said he would ask the committee to permit members of the party, which is particularly strong in Minnesota, to file affidavits on the charge.

Dies' telegram was in reply to one which contended the "issue raised against this great liberal movement" was "purely political, slanderous and unfair."

This contention was advanced by J. B. Boscome, Harold H. Seavey, William V. Sinnott, all Minnesota labor leaders, and John H. Houghton, chairman of the Benson all-party volunteer committee.

Governor Elmer Benson is running for reelection on the Farmer-Labor ticket. He is opposed by Harold Stassen, Republican, and Thomas Gallagher, Democrat.

Dies said in his message that he wanted to be fair to the party "even though Governor Benson sought by ridicule to discredit this investigation before we heard any testimony for Minnesota. x x x

"I am satisfied that the overwhelming majority of the members of the Farmer-Labor party are loyal and patriotic Americans but the evidence thus far indicated that the Communists have permeated your party and are seeking to transform it into a vehicle to spread class hatred."

NEW MYSTERY IS ADDED TO MURDER OF CHICAGO WIFE

Chicago, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A shot fired into the living room window of a home added a new element of mystery today to the slaying of Mrs. Mary De Vuono, at attractive housewife.

The home was that of the victim's sister-in-law, Mrs. Florence Foerster. Police interpreted the shot fired last night as a warning of some kind and asked ballistics experts to compare the bullet with those which killed Mrs. De Vuono.

The slain woman, a brunette 28 years old, was found fatally wounded on a divan in her home Saturday night. She was clad in pink pajamas and black slippers.

Investigators said they believed the killer slew Mrs. De Vuono while sitting with her on the divan. One shot was fired through her head, the other through her heart.

Her husband, Rosario, 33, a haberdashery clerk, said he found her on his return from work. De Vuono, who could offer no motive for the slaying, was held in technical custody for an inquest. Also held for questioning was Joseph Sandrea, 24, who, investigators said, was an admirer of the victim.

Police Capt. John Horan said he was convinced the husband knew nothing about the slaying.

The pronouncement was interpreted as an indication of the Japanese government's belief that the capture of Hankow would end the purely military phase of the conquest and permit cessation of further offensive operations by the Mikado's forces in China.

Japan will compel China to "co-operate" politically, economically and culturally after the fighting is over, said the declaration.

Dispatches from the war zones tonight said Japanese forces had drawn their cordon around the city to as close as 12 miles at one point.

I Believe In America

In a topsy-turvy world where dictators glare at us from the pages of magazines and shout at us over the radio;
In a world sick with isms and propaganda from pink to scarlet;
I, a plain citizen of these United States, wish to reaffirm my faith in Democracy;
I believe in America!
America where a humble immigrant boy from Scotland could become the Steel Master;
America where a plain mechanic could become an Industrial Giant;
America where a telegraph operator could become the Genius who Lighted the World;
America where a lanky, homely lad, born in a log cabin, could become the Leader of a Free People;
America where a man can stretch himself and grow;
America where life is an adventure and the sky is the limit;
America where the sun of inspiration, encouragement, and hope shines on men;
America where the individual counts most and human personality is supreme.

I believe in America!
America where a man need defer to no tyrants, be servile to none, and can look the world courageously in the eye;
America where a man can stand on a soap box and say his say without facing a firing squad at dawn;
America where we can laugh out loud at our leaders without being led away to a prison cell;
America where we can sleep in peace without fear of awaking to the cannon roar and marching feet of an invading army;
America where a man can freely worship the God of his fathers or find God in his own way amid the singing streams and whispering trees of the great outdoors.

I believe in America!
America where our purchasing power is greater than that of the five hundred million people in Europe and larger than that of more than a billion Asiatics;
America where bluebloods and bootblacks, business executives and bums have the same privileges;
America where mechanical slaves help with the work at the press of a button;
America where citizens from playboys to plowboys own automobiles;
America where everybody goes to ball games and eats peanuts;
America where fish poles and golf clubs take the place of swords and guns;
America where the average man is richer and happier than anywhere else on the globe.

I believe in America!
America where we progress through evolution, not revolution;
America where creative thinkers and earnest workers are building a brave new world in which to live;
America where achievement is written in steel and stone and growing things; towering skyscrapers, inspiring cathedrals, gigantic bridges, modern hospitals, beautiful parks, research laboratories and halls of learning;
America where new horizons of opportunity beckon men who possess the pioneering spirit;
America where men may dream great dreams and make those dreams come true;
America where the upward march of man has but begun!

NORMANDY P.T.A.

The Normandy P.T.A. met Friday evening at the school with a large attendance. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mabel Wesner. She gave a short talk by expressing her appreciation of the Community club and other Normandy clubs co-operating with the P.T.A. After a short business session the whole school staged a play entitled "Any Day in Any Mother's Kitchen." With the assistance of Mrs. Elder, the teacher, the children had composed and written the play. This proved most interesting and amusing as it was typical of the modern home. Mrs. Kinnamon gave a reading, "What is Home For?" Eleanor and Genevieve Sample sang a duet "Mother and Home," accompanied by Mrs. Ila Nelson. Mrs. Whitney of Van Orin gave an interesting talk on "Three Goals for Parents." Margaret Kinnamon sang "My Old Kentucky Home." The general topic for the evening's program was the "Home" and was very educational. Lunch was served in the basement by Mrs. Wesner, Mrs. Elder and Mrs. Howard Peach, and the menu consisted of pie, cookies and coffee. Mrs. Pete Kinnamon and Mrs. Grace Elder were the program committee.

CONVICT WOMEN HITCH HIKERS OF FARMER'S DEATH

Tennessee Housewives to Face Long Prison Terms For Illinois Crime

Fairfield, Ill., Oct. 24—(AP)—Confronted by long prison terms after their conviction of murdering a wealthy farmer, two young Tennessee housewives chatted amiably with jail attendants today as they awaited formal sentencing.

The women, Mrs. Jean Brooks, 23, and Mrs. Beulah Honeycutt, were convicted of the murder of Felix Shannon, 58, at his Mount Erie, Ill., home last Aug. 21.

Mrs. Honeycutt, 25-year-old buxom blonde, received the most severe penalty of the two—99 years in prison. The jury set a 30-year term as Mrs. Brooks' punishment.

The state had said the defendants "deserved capital punishment" which in Illinois is death in the electric chair.

The case was given the 11-man jury at 5:30 P. M. Saturday and four hours and 45 minutes later Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill was notified an agreement had been reached. One juror had been excused earlier on a defense motion when he was informed of the death of his father.

Near Collapse
Both women appeared to be near collapse as the verdict was read. They sobbed silently.

Judge Hill ordered the defendants returned to the courtroom at 1 P. M. tomorrow morning for formal sentencing. Shermann Griendstaff and V. W. Mills, defense attorneys, said no appeal was planned.

"Under the circumstances, we will have to be satisfied," Griendstaff said.

The court, in giving the case to the jury, instructed that the defendants must either be convicted of murder or acquitted. He did not mention a possible manslaughter verdict.

The defense did not present any testimony. The decision to present no evidence was made at a conference after the state rested its case.

Letter Found
A letter, which the prosecution charged was written by Mrs. Honeycutt to her companion in the Fairfield jail contained this sentence:

"Don't matter what happens, let's don't take the stand for its going to be pitiful."

In his closing arguments, Griendstaff asserted the letter in question definitely bore the handwriting of two persons.

State's Attorney C. W. Creighton declared in his closing arguments the defendants "deserved capital punishment."

Returned to their cells after the verdict was read, the women became more cheerful. Calmly smoking a cigarette, Mrs. Honeycutt said she was "satisfied." Both wrote letters to county officials yesterday thanking them for "nice treatment."

The women were accused of shooting Shannon to death the day after he had picked them up in his automobile while they were hitch-hiking.

BELIEVE WRECK OF NORTHWESTERN A DELIBERATE ACT

McHenry, Ill., Oct. 24—(AP)—

A road official said today that the wreck of a Chicago and Northwestern railroad passenger train here last night apparently was planned deliberately.

Fifteen persons were injured, none seriously, when the three-car train was derailed after striking an open switch about two blocks north of the McHenry station.

W. A. Kraemer, superintendent of the Galena Division said an investigation disclosed the lock on the switch apparently had been picked, the switch opened and then re-locked in that position.

Two hundred feet of track were ripped up by the train before it came to a stop, the all-steel coaches tipped at sharp angles. The locomotive remained erect but the tender fell over.

The train was Chicago-bound from Williams Bay, Wis., and carried about 60 passengers.

A fire which broke out in the vestibule of the first coach was extinguished by McHenry firemen.

None of the injured required more than first aid treatment, road officials said.

WE SHOULD LEARN TO SPEAK THE LANGUAGE OF EUROPE

It is nearly a quarter of a century since the United States has its first great row over military preparedness.

When Woodrow Wilson launched a huge naval building campaign shortly before America's entrance into the World War, the drive received a very mixed reception. Welcomed by some, it drew bitter opposition from others. The average citizen went along with it and paid the bills without too much grumbling, but he probably never did feel that the whole business was really necessary. And when the post-war Washington conference eased the road he felt that things had at last got back to normal again.

Now we are coming up to a new preparedness campaign; and this time it is doubtful that there will be one-tenth of the opposition there was before. The world is a different sort of place now, and the American people have had an unmistakable object lesson or two about the change.

It is true that we have been spending huge sums on our army and navy for several years. Both arms of the service are probably far more nearly ready for war than at any previous time in American history. But the President feels that what might be called normal peace-time preparedness is no longer good enough. This is a day of super-armaments, and no nation that wishes to make its voice heard can afford to be outclassed.

For international relations today are conducted, unhappily enough, over the sharp edge of a drawn sword. Recent events in central Europe make it all too clear that sheer power has the last word nowadays. Britain and France backed down in the Czech crisis, not because their statesmen were cowards, but because it was perfectly obvious that the other side carried too many guns.

So a program of re-armament does not mean that we are getting ready to fight somebody. It simply means that we are making certain that our voice shall be heard if it becomes necessary for us to speak. And we do not need to look all the way to central Europe for signs that we may eventually want to do some talking.

The great dictator nations are compelled to look ceaselessly for new resources to exploit, new fields to penetrate, new areas to bring under their sway. South America lies open before them, Mexico looms a tempting morsel; we might as well realize that the advance agents of European imperialism are busy in our own back yard, offering a still-unrealized but nevertheless direct threat to our vital interests.

An America fully able to strike a swift and crushing blow would be listened to; an America unable to do so might be ignored—and in consequence there might easily develop a situation to which war was the only solution.

We have no wish to meddle in Europe's quarrels. But if Europe thrusts a quarrel on us, we should be ready with the right sort of answer.

BRONX PHILOSOPHER

A sunrise salute is rated by Dr. F. H. Dietrich of the Bronx in New York. He is a man of courage and a philosopher. Two years ago when he was 50, Dr. Dietrich quit his medical practice and went on a two-year trip around the world.

He announced he wanted to enjoy some pleasant memories before "it gets too late." He visited 32 countries from New Zealand to Latvia and played golf in the International Concession at Shanghai as Japanese bombs fell on the city. The biggest change from the United States he found in the Dutch East Indies. The best boating and swimming was at Naples. The best entertainment at Milan, where he heard opera at La Scala six nights a week.

Once and only once did he have trouble in his travels. "The Japanese are ultra-suspicious," is his explanation.

Now back in New York the doctor has his memories and it's certain he will enjoy them the more knowing many people who are able to travel lack that one spark of courage to start out.

NEWS FROM EUROPE

Newspaper coverage of the recent events in Europe had a happy sequel in Chicago when the board of directors of American Society of Newspaper Editors held its annual fall meeting.

The board passed a resolution which, unlike the heavy verbiage of most resolutions, comes squarely to rest on the fundamental difference between the United States and some of the governments concerned in the "stripping of Czechoslovakia."

"While readers in countries governed by dictators and burdened by censorship were deprived of any information antagonistic to the claims and ambitions of their leaders, in the United States, the story was presented daily," the resolution read.

"Unrestrained by fear of reprisal, American editors, aided by news services that spared neither money nor effort to get the facts, kept their public constantly alive to each new fact."

"The newspaper readers of the United States were more familiar with the complicated succession of incidents abroad than was the public in the nations involved."

Here is the first line of defense of the heritage of freedom.

HALLOWE'EN

Modern improvements have failed to halt the evils of Halloween—twin of July 4 as one of two national celebration days when many celebrants "rejoice" by inconsiderate invasion of other persons' rights and privacy. Halloween is called a relic of pagan times; certainly Halloween mischief makers are not impelled by high motives.

Modern plumbing has ended one destructive practice of October 31 (and October 30, 29, 28, 27, etc.) nocturnal prowlers, but a handful of corn in a car's fuel tank is scarcely more to be desired. Yard fences are things of the past, and so their gates no longer decorate nearby trees on November 1 mornings; but loss of a garbage can which cost a dollar or two (for example) does little to increase the reverence of the householder on All Saints' day.

Punishment is not the answer to the problem. Imbued by Halloween paganism, the young mischief makers probably fail to realize the seriousness of some of their pranks. Even if such were not the case, capture and conviction must precede punishment. But victims in cities often fail to recognize their tormentors, even if they see them, while in small towns where "everybody knows everybody," the wise victim does his suffering in silence he fears he is dealing with

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

THE CHARACTERS
Kathleen Gregory goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for the Gregory mine shaft from the MacDonalds.
Donald MacDonald has refused the right-of-way, hates the Gregorys.
Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday: Donald discovers Kathleen's identity and is furious. Beatrice goes through the papers in Balm's cottage and accidentally sets them on fire. Kathleen injures her hands putting out the blaze.

Chapter 22
Golden Cards

Enroute to the hospital, Kathleen's father questioned the pain and the cause of the injury. Kathleen remained silent, and Beatrice's face was flushed. "Are you both dumb?" he cried. "Here I go to the mine for Balm's find and find he's left shift for the first time in his life. I come after him and find you two at the house, one of you injured. Can't you tell me what happened?"

Kathleen's relief in knowing her father had not inspired Beatrice's trip, in fact had no knowledge of it, was so great that she sought to break the news to him. "Bad news, Dad, there was an accident, a fire. I tried to put it out, but the house was burned. The letters were burned."

Angus sank back into the seat, the car shivering to one side. "What caused the fire?" he asked. "I did," snapped Beatrice. "I don't give a hoot about the papers, it's Balm's hands."

Kathleen glanced at the tears coursing down her aunt's cheeks. "Don't cry, Aunt Bee, I've nursed so many people in this town it's going to be fun to be nursed. Stay now, it's more important than ever that I remain Cleo Riley."

"You mean you think you can still—"

Kathleen stifled the thought immediately. "No darling, I can't vamp the gentleman. I can't stand his head because he hasn't any, but I have another plan. Just give me time—"

"There isn't much more time, daughter, we're nearly through. The last of May sees us closing." "The last of May, Dad? And will you give me free rein?"

Angus Gregory sighed deeply. "There's nothing else I can do. And Dad," she pressed her vantage point, "you see how important it is to have the Gregory mine factor made available to the people don't you? You'll be setting a precedent by taking Cleo Riley there."

"Yes," he agreed. "I'll fix that up, not too much pain, but a very watery grin. I can take it with a gain like that in view."

Mayne brought the news to the MacDonald's table. She served it with the fruit cocktail. "She's in the hospital and the doctor says she has to stay."

Mrs. MacDonald glanced at her son as though to remind him that Cleo Riley was responding to his demand to remove herself from his home. "What happened, Mayne?" she asked.

"Put out a fire with her hands. In Balm's house."

"But what was she doing in Balm's house?"

"Your housekeeper told Jane Ariss when she came to bring Miss Cleo some watermelon pickles, that she had seen that Gregory woman sneaking down to Balm's by the back way and she guessed Miss Cleo saw her. So, cause Miss Cleo flew out of the house like fury at high tide, and took right after her."

"Strange," murmured Mrs. MacDonald. "Hardly, in view of what we know is wanted," countered her son, bitterly.

"Poor-Spit Fire!"

When Mayne returned with the next course she had fresh news. "Mrs. Campbell heard Mrs. MacBride yelling to Grandma Harkus that when they were dressing her hands this Gregory woman threw a fit. She said it was all her fault."

"That settles it," announced Mrs. MacDonald. "We're going down to see that child—"

"Go down . . . on that mine property . . . are you out of your mind, mother?"

"And what's more," continued his mother, ignoring his question. "you are going with me. We'll make sure the Gregorys are at home, then—"

Kathleen floated in a nirvana, induced by a hypodermic. It was an extremely nice world. Nothing much mattered. Sometimes the nurses floated too, and the furniture.

And sometimes the world wasn't so nice. A nurse would appear and grip her wrists, another nurse would appear with a spray and there would be a few moments of excruciating pain.

"I'm sure the doctor won't mind we won't stay but a moment."

That voice came during a period of sheer happiness. A woman's voice, the woman who lived in the other half of the Gregory house: Mrs. MacDonald.

"But we're just going to—well, all right," said the nurse.

Kathleen giggled. Donald MacDonald was standing on his head and his eyes were as round as blue saucers.

Then came the grip of her wrists. Tears streamed from Kathleen's eyes; she gritted her teeth. The nurses floated, out taking Mrs. MacDonald with them. Donald floated over to the bedside.

"Poor little spit-fire," he said, "a tough break."

"She didn't mean to," Kathleen hastened to tell him. She must make these MacDonalds know about the Gregorys. "She didn't understand, integrity of spirit and all . . . I didn't . . ." her voice faded.

The following afternoon the nurses walked and the furniture remained stationary. They were reducing the injection content, the pain was a steady pulsing reality, the wet puffs upon which her palms rested, felt like nettles.

"Ruth," Kathleen whispered to the nurse, "did the MacDonalds visit me or was that part of my crazy dreams?"

The nurse laughed. "They visited you and I thought Kit-Smyth was going to have apoplexy."

Kathleen closed her eyes. What had she said to Donald? Why couldn't she remember? Well, she'd soon learn from his attitude. And what had he said to her? Something, she couldn't remember the words but they were tender.

Balm ended all conjecture over the fire with a lucid explanation. "I'd invited both Miss Riley and Miss Gregory to visit my cot at any time, the door was always unlocked. Miss Riley, seeing the other lady going down, followed, hoping to interest her in the Gregory cots. Miss Gregory dropped a cigarette on some old papers, neither noticed anything until the flames were high, then Miss Riley beat them out with her hands."

The Human Element
Kathleen returned to the Gregory house a heroine, and guest of Miss Beatrice Gregory. The Gregorys were leaving the following day but that evening father and daughter had a satisfying talk.

"It's a big responsibility to head a corporation like ours, my dear," he told her. "You can't run a mine with the cost of taking out ore, smelting and transporting more than the value received. Sometimes you become so involved in trying to find that line of balance in the market, you forget the human element involved. And when you see the end before you, and know that all of these people, not just the miners are depending upon your wisdom for their livelihood, you . . . well you're baffled."

A mild word for your feelings. I'll admit I didn't know conditions were just as bad as they are. It's useless to correct them now. We'll just have to wait."

Kathleen nodded and felt the responsibility her father had carried had been transferred to her shoulders. She understood that her new work was as she was. Washington—In a confidential report to the president of a group of ace economists, 1939 is pictured as a very rosy business year.

The president asked for the 1939 survey to assist him in preparing the new budget. The economists are the same hard-boiled experts who predicted the 1937 slump when treasury and other government advisers were very bullish. Their sunny forecast is based on two key factors:

1. A $1,000,000,000 increase in construction in 1939.

2. Industrial production only slightly under the 1937 peak.

Construction activity for the current year will total approximately $5,100,000,000, as compared to $5,800,000,000 in 1937 and $4,900,000,000 in 1936. The economists estimate that construction next year will range between a "conservative" figure of $6,100,000,000 and an "optimistic" possibility of $6,700,000,000.

These calculations do not include WPA building, which was excluded because of uncertainty over the extent of next year's WPA program. If it is added, the total would be around 1930's soaring $8,100,000,000.

The economists expect 400,000 new dwelling units to be built next year, an increase of about 30 per cent over this year's 310,000 new homes. Basis for their confidence is (1) a steady rise in individual bank deposits, which means that prospective home buyers will have the money to make down payments; (2) the relatively low percentage of vacant dwellings plus the failure of rents to decline appreciably; and (3) decreases in construction costs.

In non-durable, or consumer goods, the experts estimate an output in 1939 approximating the 1937 peak. In durable goods, such as autos, machinery, and steel, the prediction is that production, while well over the 1938 level, will be from 10 to 20 per cent under 1937.

The Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production has ranged this year from a low of 76 to a high of 95. The economists told the president the 1939 peak would be between 105 and 120. That means a total national income for 1939 of around $70,000,000, as compared to the $63,000,000 estimated for this year.

Such a notable improvement would boom retail sales, railroad travel and freight revenues; consumption of electricity, gas and coal; and would return millions to private employment, with resulting decreases in federal and local relief costs.

According to Eve
Washington society is breathless over the prospective contents of the new column just started in the Washington Herald by Evie Walker Robert, glamour girl of the New Deal and wife of the secretary of the Democratic National Committee. The column will be entitled "According to Eve."

Here's hoping Evie does not discover the truth of Don Marquis' saying: "A column is a grave 21 inches long and 2 inches wide."

Another Jolt
The A. F. of L. is in for still another jolt from Senator Ed Burke. On his return from a recent vacation in England, the Nebraskan, leader of the congressional opposition to the National Labor Relations Board, let it be known that he had changed his mind and would make no attempt to riddle that agency. Now it develops he also has walked out on the AFL in its fight against the reappointment of NLRB Commissioner Donald Smith.

At a dinner in his honor in Omaha, Burke disclosed that he would not oppose Smith's confirmation, but intended actively to support him.

On His Own
The day after young William J. Dempsey was elevated to general counsel of the Federal Communications Commission in the recent shakeup, his father, Representative John J. Dempsey of New Mexico, telephoned him and said, "Why didn't you tell us about your promotion? That's a fine way to treat your parents."

"Sorry, Dad," Bill replied, "but I was terribly busy, and besides I figured you would read about it in the papers."

The incident epitomizes young Dempsey's career in the government service. He got his first job in 1934 as a $3,000-a-year PWA lawyer without pull or influence, and he has risen steadily to his new $9,000 post solely by hard work and ability. This 33-year-old, tall, blue-eyed, black-haired Irishman has always made his own way.

Born in Brooklyn, he attended law school in Washington and returned to New York as a fledgling attorney. When the PWA was set up he applied for a job, and was assigned to assist SECommissioner Jerome Frank, then handling PWA litigation on power projects. A brief prepared by Dempsey in a key case was accorded the unusual tribute of being upheld in toto by the Supreme Court.

His outstanding work in the power suits—particularly in upholding the Santee-Cooper project in South Carolina, where the government was pitted against the late Newton Baker—won Dempsey an offer from Oswald Ryan, general counsel of the Federal Power Commission, to become his assistant.

In the FPC, Dempsey soon attracted the favorable attention of Chairman Frank McNinch. When the president shifted McNinch to the Communications Commission to clean it up, he took Dempsey along as special counsel.

Dempsey is married, has two boys and a baby girl. He has one sartorial weakness—loud suspenders—which are visible all over his office as he works in his shirt sleeves.

Mail Bag
T. B. T. San Luis Obispo, Cal.—There is no record of Mrs. Roosevelt ever making the statement that $9 a week is sufficient for any person to live on. In view of her long record as an advocate of high wages and shorter hours, it is highly improbable that she ever said anything like that. . . .

L. J. Tacoma, Wash.—The vote in the U. S. Maritime Commission on the plan by which the government took over the Dollar Line Shipping Company was three to two. . . .

Mrs. K. W. Hamilton, Mont.—Congressman Jerry O'Connell has the full backing of the White House for re-election. His New Deal voting record is 100 per cent. . . .

E. S. Birmingham, Ala.—Representative Maury Maverick has as yet accepted no government job. He is being considered for Wage-Hour Administrator in Texas.

LOCAL SCOUT TROOP PLANS ACT PROGRAM FOR ITS TENTH YEAR

Boy Scout troop, No. 89 is planning an active program in recognition of their tenth year as an active registered Scout body. The troop was organized in 1929 and has enjoyed a healthy growth since that time. More than 200 Dixon boys have passed through the ranks of Scouting in Troop 89.

As an appropriate recognition of this continued activity, the tenth year of Troop 89 will be known as Jubilee Year and special program and advancements have been planned by Scoutmaster Kenneth Abbott. Several of the senior members of the troop are working for Eagle Scout ratings.

An exerted effort is being made by the troop membership to capture the Team Year program award in 1938 as they did last year. This ambition may be realized by at least 90 per cent of the troop registering for next year. Troop registration will take place Tuesday evening at the regular weekly troop meeting.

Next Friday some 20 odd Boy Scouts will go north of Dixon for an overnight week-end hike. Scouts will take blanket rolls, warm clothing and plenty of food. Scoutmaster Abbott has made arrangements for a cabin for the hikers and no tents will be required.

At the regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening, the monthly board of review will be held, and Scouts are requested to attend prepared to be reviewed on any tests passed during the past month.

Miss Dement Addresses Woman's Club Guest Day; 140 are Present

Describing "art as education and education as art", Miss Lucia W. Dement spoke to members of the Dixon Woman's club and invited guests Saturday afternoon on "The American Wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art." The meeting, which was the club's annual Guest Day, was held in St. Luke's Episcopal church, with 140 or more members and guests attending.

Miss Dement chose a lecture by Huger Elliott as the basis of her remarks, which were illustrated by lantern slides, with F. A. Hanson assisting. The speaker, who was lecturer and instructor in the teacher's college at Columbia university for a number of years, told her listeners that "it is usually necessary to have Europe's okeh of everything before it is taken seriously here, but our Colonial art is something we can well be proud of." The development and wealth of the Colonies were clearly shown in their homes, furniture, and silverware, she said.

Many interesting pictures accompanied the lecture, the scenes including an early "board", to which the speaker said the words "boarding house", "sideboard," and similar terms may trace their origin. There were also pictures of early fireplaces, secret staircases, which were a means of escape both from unwelcome tax collectors and marauders; a Washington birthday ball, as well as period furniture, china, and silver, and portraits of the patriot and silversmith, Paul Revere, and Lafayette. Numerous examples were shown of the Chinese ball and claw, dragon, and lacquer type of decoration, as well as the classic columns, lyre and urn decoration of the Greek and Roman period, and the headrest and wig influence of the Louis XVI era.

Mrs. E. H. Prince, chairman of the art department, introduced Miss Dement, whose lecture was preceded by 30 minutes of delightful violin selections by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Westgor. The Westgors, who were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Dwight Chapman chose the second movement from Moszkowski's "Suite for Two Violins," the third movement from the Mozart "Concertante for Two Violins," and their own arrangement of "Molly on the Shore," by Percy Grainger.

Mrs. Earl Auman gave a brief account of the regional institute held recently at Mount Morris, and Mrs. Harry Edwards announced an all-day institute and scramble luncheon for Nov. 12. Institute speakers are to include Miss Katherine Baxter, who is to discuss "Lighting," Mrs. Alexander, who is to show her world collection of 1,000 shoes, and a color stylist.

THE MISERY OF HIS COLD BEGINS TO GO

When you just do this:

VapoRub's poultice-and-vapor action goes right to work—direct through the skin like a poultice, while its medicated vapors, released by the body warmth, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This two-way action (inhalation and stimulation) loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—and he soon feels comfortable again.

Long after he relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. And often by morning the worst of his cold is over. No wonder 3 out of 5 mothers put faith in VapoRub whenever anyone in the family has a cold!

JAP BOMBING AND CUSTOMS DISPUTE
ADD TO INCIDENTSBritish Warship Damaged;
American Liner Is Loaded With Silver

Shanghai, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Japanese aerial bombing of a British warship and a customs dispute over an American passenger liner today added two new incidents to the long list of international complications in the China war.

Bombs from six Japanese planes fell about and damaged the superstructure of the British gunboat Sandpiper, anchored at Changsha about 200 miles southwest of Hankow. There were no casualties.

The customs dispute arose over Japanese refusal to clear the Dollar Liner President Coolidge early this morning for San Francisco, with a cargo of silver valued at more than $4,000,000, which the Japanese-sponsored government apparently considered its property.

Agreed to Unload
The Dollar Line agreed to unload the silver whereupon permission was granted to sail at 8 a. m. Tuesday.

Chinese customs officials on Sunday issued permits for export of the silver and for departure of the Coolidge, and passengers took the tender to board her in midstream before Japanese officials cancelled the permits.

United States Consul General Clarence E. Gauss was understood to have referred the matter to Washington.

The silver, loaded under United States Marine guard, was reported consigned to the Chase National bank of New York.

The Japanese-sponsored government of Shanghai with the co-operation of Japanese military and naval authorities effected cancellation of the clearance papers.

"Vigorously Protested"
British naval officers said they "vigorously protested" the bombing of the Sandpiper.

The incident followed a Japanese warning to foreign vessels Saturday to withdraw from the Hankow area to avoid dangers of a massed aerial bombardment there.

Japanese planes bombed Hankow rail centers all day Sunday and today's 20-mile advance brought Japanese naval forces to within 20 air miles of the China capital but the foreign warships remained at their Hankow anchorages.

They included two United States gunboats.
British naval officers here doubted that the bombing was accidental.

NATIONALISTS ARE VICTORS IN FRENCH
ELECTION SUNDAY

Paris, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Nationalist victory in Sunday's French senatorial elections appeared today to have opened the way for Premier Edouard Daladier to shift his government majority from the leftist parties to the right.

Extreme right parties gained 10 seats, winning 34 out of the 97 contested. There was a slight trend to the other extreme as well with the socialists gaining one seat and the Republican socialists two.

But the outstanding fact in the senatorial election not usually considered highly significant in France was the unmistakable shift to the right. Daladier's supporters interpreted this as approval of his part in the four-power Munich conference to partition Czechoslovakia and his efforts to reach an understanding with Germany.

The fact that the rightists' gains were made at the expense of the premier's own middle-of-the-road radical socialist party strangely enough strengthened rather than weakened Daladier's position. Members of his party who lost were left-wingers who had remained loyal to the people's front.

The premier threw overboard former Premier Leon Blum's socialist party which he previously had been trying to keep as part of his majority in the chamber of deputies. At Daladier's orders radical socialist electors voted for rightists wherever it appeared Blum's followers had a chance of winning.

Charges U. S. Gets Nazi Attention

Germany's "Gestapo," Nazi propaganda organization, is concentrating on the United States, Editor Arnold Gingrich, above, of Ken Magazine, charged before the Dies un-American activities committee in Washington. Three departments devoted to espionage in this country have been added to "Gestapo" in the past year, he said.

work week of about 1,500,000 men and women and to fatten the pay envelopes of 750,000.

Although Administrator Andrews said large groups of employers had offered their wholehearted co-operation, it was generally expected there would be many court tests of the legislation.

He announced that enforcement would rest largely in the hands of businessmen themselves, rather than on a large force of field inspectors from Washington.

TO HELP ENFORCEMENT

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—American Federation of Labor officials said today that affiliated groups in more than 500 cities would help enforce the new wage-hour act.

The committee, they said, will provide information on the operations of the law, and in instances of reported violations will aid workers in gathering evidence.

sons as appraisers to determine controversial questions in such cases, such appraisers to be paid not more than $10 a day, not to exceed 10 per cent of the aggregate tax levied and in no case more than $300, plus expenses.

The complaint alleged that Judge Jerecki, however, appointed as appraisers "political henchmen, precinct captains, payrollers, persons of shady reputations, illiterate persons, saloon keepers, professional gamblers, persons guilty of vote fraud violations and other crimes, plumbers, court reporters, bakers, jockeys, chauffeurs and tax fixers."

It declared Judge Jerecki also appointed his father-in-law, Marion Durski, and that Durski was paid $10,411 in fees. Among those named specifically in the complaint and amounts allegedly paid were:

Those Named
A. L. Matuszak, described as Judge Jerecki's chauffeur, $40, 406; Sidney Holzman, described as the judge's personal secretary, $77,756; Vincent Swiecka, described as Jerecki's personal clerk, $40, 720; Thomas Hannigan, "who is in some unknown fashion attached to the county court, $55,730.

The complaint declared appraiser appointments were made "with the seeming intent and purpose of building a powerful political machine in order to perpetuate himself and his political allies in public office."

"That by reason aforesaid, the said Edmund K. Jerecki is no longer fit and qualified to act as judge of the county court * * *"

The complaint said it was addressed to the bar association "for whatever action they may see fit to initiate."
Mrs. Robertson said copies were sent to Gov. Horner, Attorney General Otto Kerner, State Attorney Courtney and Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue.

POLAND BACKING
HITLER IN MOVE
FOR DOMINATIONFriendship is Tempered
With an Attitude of Watchfulness

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs
Writer

Warsaw, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Leader Hitler sets out on his campaign for economic and political dominance over central Europe and the Balkans with the great asset of Polish friendship, albeit this is tempered with a highly independent attitude of watchfulness.

This is of vital importance to the Fuehrer for Poland is a force to be reckoned with, especially since many military experts figure that she holds the balance of power between Germany and Russia. A hostile Poland might jeopardize Hitler's vision of expansion.

Poland had been leaning away from France and toward Germany for some five years with intervening periods of rather hard feelings between Warsaw and Berlin.

Paris Worked Hard

During that time Paris worked hard to win the Poles back. The Franco-British acquiescence in the German demand for annexation of Czechoslovakia territories made the scale tilt the floor with a bang in favor of Germany.

The Polish people as a whole thought that France should have backed up Czechoslovakia. They held that Czechoslovakia would have adopted different policies long ago had she known that France wouldn't fight.

In explanation of their having demanded and obtained a part of Silesia the Poles say they intervened only after the partition of Czechoslovakia had been determined upon. Warsaw admits being practical.

Sharp Turnover

This represented a sharp turnover in sentiment, for despite the ostensibly friendly atmosphere of the last year, there really never has been any love lost between the Germans and the Poles. There is a history of centuries of conflict between the two peoples, and the Poles decline to forget a lot of things, including the three years of German occupation during the World war. The Poles claim that the Germans treated them like a colony—and Polish memory is stimulated by an intense love of freedom.

Started in 1933

The Polish turn-away from France started in 1933 when Marshal Pilsudski, the benevolent dictator, was said to have advised his friends, the French, to wage a preventive war against Germany, as they would have to do so eventually. When France rejected the idea, Pilsudski, foreseeing the collapse of French influence in this part of the world, turned to Germany. The following year a non-aggression pact was signed.

Hitler always has spoken warmly of Pilsudski, and with good reason. It is said that it was the great Pole who learned through his secret service of the proposed coup against the Fuehrer in 1934 and warned the latter.

The historic Nazi purge followed.

"BROKE IN HALF."

London, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A government court of inquiry probing one of the deepest mysteries of the sea decided today that the British freighter Anglo Australian, missing seven months, probably broke in half from "deck to keel" after her shelter deck buckled.

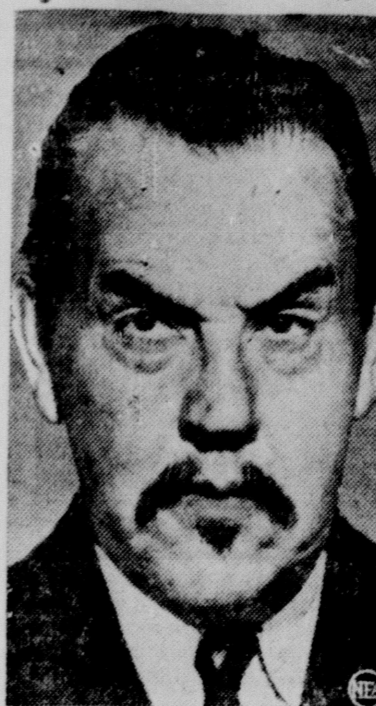

The 5,456 ton vessel, carrying a crew of 39, disappeared last March in mid-Atlantic while on a voyage from England to Vancouver, B. C., No trace of her has been found.

"Charlie Chan"
Will Carry On

It seemed that "Charlie Chan," famous Chinese detective of the movies, had passed on with the recent death in Sweden of Warner Oland, who created the character. But insistent demands by movie fans for a continuation of the mystery thrillers moved the producers to seek a successor. Veteran character actor Sidney Toler, pictured above made up as the aphorism-dispensing Oriental sleuth, won the role over 34 candidates.

W. H. M. S.—The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church held its October meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hintze. The president, Miss Estella Anderson, presided. The opening song was "A Charge to Keep I Have." The devotions were conducted by Miss Minet Wagner, at the conclusion of which a hymn was sung by Mrs. R. B. Jacobson at the piano. After contacting the business of the society the meeting was turned over to the program leader, Mrs. Phillip Hopkins. Mrs. William Hintze read a leaflet on "Christian Citizenship." Mrs. H. D. Bill, Mrs. E. J. Brown and Mrs. Arthur Sheffield gave a demonstration, "Thanksgiving Message." Mrs. Jacobson then sang a solo, "Others." She was accompanied by Mrs. Crawford Thomas. Twenty-three ladies attended this meeting, at the conclusion of which the hostess served dainty refreshments. Miss Harriet Breed will act as hostess for the November meeting.

W. H. and F. M. S.—Mrs. Robert Fulmer, assisted by Miss Mabel LeFevre and Mrs. S. E. Walker entertained the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the True Blue church on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Fulmer on West Everett street.

The meeting opened with the reading of a poem after which Mrs. LeRoy Gail and Mrs. Oscar Cramer led in prayer. Mrs. William Foster and Mrs. S. E. Walker favored with a duet accompanied by Mrs. Foster on the guitar. A devotional talk based on Isaiah 66:1 was given by Mrs. Walker. Miss Clara Hoffman presented two numbers on her recitation. The leaflet "An Indian Church Prays" was read by Miss Mabel LeFevre. Mrs. Fulmer developed the remainder of the study book, "My Beloved Armenia." A bit of current missionary news from China was given by Mrs. John Nelson. Miss Anna Ruth Ash read six missionary beauties. Temperance notes were read by Miss Theodore Gail, after which Mrs. Carl Hess, president of the society, took charge of the meeting.

Roll call was answered by 26 members. There were also three visitors and seven children present.

On Sunday morning, Oct. 30, the society will have their annual Thank offering meeting in place of the regular morning service. A special speaker has been engaged for this meeting.

At the close of the meeting the hostesses served refreshments.

Bert Cummings takes all the honors (thus far) as guest pigskin picker with a percentage of .789 to top Jim O'Malley's .772; Fritzlen's .700 and Bill Underwood, Jr.'s .688. Cummings was crossed up by Indiana, Auburn, Stanford and Columbia—all close games—and Navy and Princeton battled to a 13 to 13 tie. Next Friday Dixon high school's football coach, C. B. Lindell, will make his predictions.

Dixon high school will engage in its first conference game on the home battlefield Saturday when DeKalb arrives for a twin bill of light and heavyweight contests.

Polo high school, defeated 33 to 6 by Amboy last Wednesday, will attempt to regain some of its composure at Morrison on Friday night. On the same evening Rochelle will be the guest team at Amboy. We got razzed plenty for picking Polo over Amboy last week—and after seeing the Amboy victory, we can understand why. This week, however, we give Amboy the nod over Rochelle.

Every effort is being made at Franklin Grove to have the opening basketball game on Nov. 2 with Rolo a sellout. The second game on that night will start at 9:10 P. M. in order to give the merchants a chance to see the tilt.

Speaking of basketball: the boys from Mrs. Shawger's boarding house are still looking for games with any taker-owners. To book a contest interested managers are asked to contact Phil Lightstone or Bill Price at K913.

Games in the North Central conference for next week-end include only the Dixon-DeKalb game while Sterling has a rest, Mendota plays Princeton and Belvidere meets Freeport.

Sterling's football team found out that Mendota has a power-house when they invaded their camp on Saturday afternoon. That's no news in Dixon, however, as the locals had their trouble down there too, but came out of it better than Sterling's squad which lost 19 to 0. The lightweight game ended 7 to 6 in favor of Sterling. Seno of Mendota was responsible for the three touchdowns and the extra point on a line plunge. The first score came in the first quarter when Seno plunged from the three yard line for the touchdown and made the extra point. In the third quarter on a spinner play Seno ran 81 yards to the enemy goal and in the same period Hassenberger intercepted a Sterling pass on the Mendota 28 and returned it to the Sterling 22. From there a lateral from Troupis to Seno was good for the final score. Sterling was crippled with three regulars out of the game with injuries.

PRIZE BONEHEAD BLAMED FOR THE CARNegie DEFEAT

Kern Claims Official's Mistake Set Up the Notre Dame Win

Pittsburgh, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Coach Bill Kern of Carnegie Tech challenged the nation's football coaches today to match what he termed football officiating's prize "bonehead," which set up a 7-0 victory for Notre Dame against Kern's team Saturday.

"Kernel" Kern aimed a verbal blast at Referee John Getchell of Minneapolis who conceded he had erred in informing Tech's quarterback that it was third down instead of fourth.

The quarterback called a running play and the Tartans lost the ball on their own 46 yard line. The inspired Irish scored three plays later.

"It was the biggest bonehead I ever saw pulled by any official," fumed Kern upon his return from South Bend. "It certainly meant defeat for us. Getchell was on our boys all afternoon and then he had to cap his general tactics with booting a decision a high school boy wouldn't have been guilty of."

Emphasizing that he was speaking for "my boys who worked so hard to get ready for the game," one of Saturday's outstanding tilts, Kern asserted:

"Knocked Down"
"It's tough to get knocked down when you don't deserve it. Our boys were actually outplaying the strong Irish team. We would have been right up there, even with a tie."

Kern charged that Getchell threatened to penalize Tech for holding up the game when some of the Tartans pointed out that the score board recorded fourth down.

"How about that one," Kern asked. "A guy who is so inefficient he gives you the works—and then he's going to add a penalty."

Kern pointed out that the Tech squad left South Bend with the most cordial feelings for Notre Dame and the Irish coach, Elmer Layden, noting: "They had nothing to do with it."

NINE TEAMS ARE KNOCKED OFF THE UNDEFEATED LIST

Saturday Was Only The Prelude to Wholesale Slaughter

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The lopping off last week of nine more teams from the undefeated football list seemed today to be only a prelude to wholesale execution among the leaders before another Monday rolls around.

With Carnegie Tech, Syracuse, Georgia, Vanderbilt, Creighton, Colorado State, Brigham Young, Idaho and San Francisco all biting the dust, the undefeated list had shrunk to 21 major teams, five of which have been tied.

Survivors included:

East—Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Villanova, Georgetown, George Washington, Boston College (tied) and Fordham (tied).

Midwest—Minnesota, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Iowa State, Western Reserve and Northwestern (tied).

South—Tennessee and Duke. Southwest—Texas Christian, Texas Tech and Baylor (tied).

Far West—California and Santa Clara. Rocky Mountain—Utah (tied).

Virtually all these must run considerable risk this week as the following high spot program reveals.

In the East.

Seven intersectional battles, including Army and Notre Dame, are on the card but the feature battle sends Pitt against Fordham at Pittsburgh in an effort to break a series of three successive scoreless ties.

Notre Dame, stopped cold most of the afternoon, finally pushed across a touchdown to beat Carnegie Tech 7-0 while Army was tuning up in a 40-0 conquest of Boston University. Ohio State, still a contender in the Big Ten race after a 42-7 runaway for Chicago, probably will mow down New York University, nosed out 7-6 by Lafayette.

Minnesota's unbeaten Big Ten pace-setters return to the wars against Northwestern's Wildcats who tripped Illinois, 13-0. Minnesota, Northwestern and Ohio State, alone of the Big Ten group, so far have escaped conference defeat. Michigan meets Illinois; Wisconsin, halted by Purdue, 13-7, plays Indiana, beaten 13-6 by Kansas State; and Iowa clashes with Purdue in other conference clashes. Michigan State plays host to Santa Clara's Broncos, who stopped Arkansas, 21-6. Marquette, beaten 21-0 by Texas Christian, tackles Iowa State, another unbeaten, untied array.

Iowa State, Oklahoma and Kansas State all are unbeaten within the big six conference. Kansas State should halt Kansas, beaten 21-7 by Iowa State. Nebraska, halted by Oklahoma, 14-0, meets Missouri, 13-0 conqueror of Washington University (St. Louis). Oklahoma, meanwhile, will play the tough Missouri Valley Conference outfit, Tulsa.

CLEVELAND RAMS ON WAR PATH DEFEAT CHICAGO BEARS

Chicago, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Green Bay, new Western Division leader and perennially one of the National professional football league's most feared title challengers, will go to Cleveland next Sunday to verify reports that a once gentle Ram eleven has become the terror of the league.

Cleveland lost its 1938 opener to Green Bay 26 to 17, and stumbled twice more. Whereupon Art Lewis, 26-year-old former Ohio university tackle, was named to supplant Hugo Bezdek as coach.

The Rams immediately butted their way into a sensational winning streak which yesterday reached three in a row. The sweep came over such power clubs as Detroit and Chicago's Bears, only teams to whip Green Bay.

Yesterday the Rams gave a convincing enough demonstration their earlier 14 to 7 triumph over the Bears was no fluke by forward passing the Chicagoans into submission 23 to 21 and knocking them into second place in the Western division with a record of four triumphs and two setbacks.

Green Bay jumped into the lead with a record of 5 and 2 as a result of its 20 to 6 verdict against Pittsburgh.

Washington held first place in the eastern division by defeating Philadelphia, 20 to 14.

Detroit handed Chicago's Cardinals their sixth defeat of the year, 16 to 0. Meanwhile, New York, runnerup in the eastern section, trounced the Dodgers, 28 to 14.

The famous Italian composer, Scarlatti, wrote his well known "Cat Fugue" after hearing the notes produced by a cat which ran across the keys of his harpsichord.

UNKNOWNNS ARE ON TOP OF THE LIST OF FOOTBALL TEAMS

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)

The mighty men of the gridiron—the Pitts, Notre Dames, Texas Christians, Californias and the like—are just a few also-rans today as the middle of the football seasons finds the "unknowns" at the top of the nation's list of undefeated and untied college teams.

After some five weeks of general gridiron warfare, 41 teams with unblemished records were listed today in an Associated Press survey, and most of them are teams that would be lucky to buy tickets for one of the "bowl" games that reward the national leader each year.

The No. 1 team is San Jose State of California, one of four teams which have won six straight games and the high scorer of the lot with 215 points to 25 for the opposition. Other six-game winners are Texas Tech, California, and Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

Of the 41 undefeated-untied teams, only five can add the designation "un-scored-on." They are Dukes' Blue Devils, Southern conference rulers, Eastern Kentucky Teachers, George Washington, Platteville (Wis.) Teachers and Johns Hopkins, the leader in de-emphasizing football, which has played only one game and won it, 7-0.

WILDCATS HOPE TO DETHRONE THE MIGHTY GOPHERS

Not a Point Has Been Scored Against the Purple This Year

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

Northwestern, the team that kept Minnesota from a four-year Big Ten football monopoly by snaring the 1936 championship, will attempt to break up another Golden Gopher title reign Saturday.

Minnesota had carried off undisputed honors in 1934 and shared the championship with Ohio State in 1935 before the Wildcat interruption. Since then it has started all over and already owns two victories in a drive toward repeating its 1937 achievement.

But where Purdue failed by a touchdown and Michigan by a single point, the Wildcats, full of veteran power and sophomore talent, are confident they can stop Bernie Bierman's power house.

Not a point has been scored against the Purple this season in four games. Last week it resorted to no more than ordinary offensive maneuvers to flatten Illinois, 13 to 0.

Gophers Resting
Meanwhile, the Gophers were resting for their big test. They benefitted further by the idle week-end since it gave Harold Van Every, their star passer, and Wilbur Moore, fleet halfback, an extra week to recover from recent injuries.

The game is one of four conference engagements Saturday. Two will bring together Purdue at Iowa and Illinois at Michigan and unscramble a five way tie for fourth place. All four clubs have a record of a victory and defeat apiece along with Wisconsin, which takes on Indiana in the other Big Ten game.

Mike Byelene, a sophomore and one of Purdue's three star "B" ball carriers, led the Boilermakers to a 13 to 7 victory over Wisconsin. Lou Brock and Jack Brown had carried the brunt of the attack in earlier games but Saturday Byelene stepped in to hurl one touchdown pass to Jack Krause and ran 73 yards for the winning score.

Boilermakers Favorites
The Boilermakers will be the favorites over the Hawkeyes who lost last week to Colgate's red raiders 14 to 0. Michigan, which had to resort to forward passes to escape a Yale aerial barrage that threatened defeat with each pitch, is likewise favored over Illinois. The faster Wolverines defeated Yale 15 to 13, and their speed and all around attack is expected to prove too much for the Illini, further crippled last week by the loss of halfback Bob Wehrli, who suffered a fractured elbow.

Indiana, beaten 13 to 6 by Kansas State, will be still after its first triumph of the year when it encounters Wisconsin—and the odds are against it.

Ohio State, 42 to 7 victor over Chicago, turns to New York University, a non-conference foe, this week. Chicago has high hopes of finally breaking into the winning list against De Pauw.

Notre Dame will continue its national title quest against Army after a scare in a bruising battle against Carnegie Tech that wound up 7 to 0 in favor of the Irish.

The recall in American politics first was used during the time of the Continental Congress. Pennsylvania's delegates refused to sign the Declaration of Independence, were recalled, and other delegates sent in their places.

ADMINISTRATION TO ASK BROADENING OF THE FARM PROGRAM

Washington, Oct. 24—(AP)—The administration intends to recommend that Congress broaden its farm program, officials disclosed today, by making crop insurance available to the nation's 2,500,000 cotton growers.

Wheat growers, under a law passed last winter, are protected against losses from drought, flood, storms, hail, insects and other natural hazards.

Officials said there was a possibility the administration also might recommend insurance for corn growers. Whether it does, they said, will depend on the progress the experts make in preparation of premium rates.

Meanwhile, with operation of the existing farm program upset by other crop surpluses and low prices, administration leaders are launching an intensive campaign to line farmers up against congressional proposals to substitute price-fixing and unrestricted production.

In working out their strategy, Secretary Wallace and other supporters of the present program are asking more than 10,000 local AAA committeemen and county farm agents to conduct community meetings and rally support behind existing crop control laws.

The secretary has written letters saying it would be helpful for county and community committeemen to meet in a group and review the present situation, study the substitute proposals and determine a desirable policy for the future. Later, farmers in each community could do the same, the letter added.

She Wants Love Before Riches

Love and happiness come before riches in the plans of 26-year-old Janet White, above, who sticks to her $30-a-week job in a Rochester, N. Y., department store, demonstrating sewing machines in preference to marrying Leonard Marler, 35, son of Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian minister to the United States. Miss White publicly renounced her love for Leonard, who now is suing his father for $300,000, charging illegal confinement in a mental hospital.

IN CONFERENCE

THESE natives of Latacunga take time off to discuss the current problems of the dairy business. Latacunga, center of a district of cattle farms and dairies, is located 5,000 feet above sea level on the rail route leading from Quito, capital of Ecuador, down to Guayaquil, the chief port visited weekly by cruises from New York and California.

The beautiful setting for this curb discussion is provided by an old Spanish colonial church. Scores of lovely old buildings like this adorn the towns located in the Sierra of Ecuador for the highland villages have changed but little since the days of the Conquest. This is due to the fact that they were accessible only by horseback until the comparatively recent introduction of railways and motor roads.

New edifices as well as the old, however, cling to Spanish colonial lines, because stone, the favorite building material in the highlands, lends itself so beautifully to that form of architecture. The Ecuadorians are fine stone masons, and the buildings reveal their clever workmanship.

EIGHT STATES MAY HOLD THE KEY FOR NOVEMBER ELECTION

Washington, Oct. 24—(AP)—The man who tries to understand the November election returns may find his answers in the way eight states vote.

If he hunts for any accurate analysis, he will have to dig much deeper. But a casual, off-hand appraisal may be gained from the returns of these sample states, despite the personalities and issues involved in the other 40.

Three eastern states are on the list: New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. One mixed industrial and farm state would be added—Ohio. Iowa might represent the farm states of the Middle West. Wisconsin and Minnesota each have a third party jousting with Republicans and Democrats for continuance in power.

California should be included not only as representative of the Pacific Coast but as a study in what that whole area of Mountain and Coast states is going to do about old age pensions.

New York, with the country's biggest wad of electoral votes, has drawn President Roosevelt and his top tactician, Postmaster General Farley, actively into the campaign. It is the President's home state.

Pennsylvania, too, has lured many of the first rank Democrats into its campaign.

In Massachusetts, James M. Curley, a former governor, is trying for that office again. Leverett Saltonstall, a socially prominent former speaker of the Massachusetts House, is his Republican opponent.

The midnight sun is not limited to the two polar areas; it can be seen south of the Arctic circle and north of the Antarctic circle.

Cuba, if placed with one end at New York City, would reach as far west as Chicago.

A 16-day old robin can eat as many as 68 earthworms in a single day.

"Please Don't Hurt My Little Girl"

(No. 2 of a Series of Messages on Highway Safety)

Dear Driver:

Today my daughter who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker-spaniel, whose name is "Scout," sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "goodbye" and started off to the halls of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her—the girl with the yellow curls—and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head—and about the trees in the school yard—and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital, unimportant things; then we studied spelling, reading and arithmetic—and then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery—sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and darts about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoon. But I can't be with her all the time—I have to work to pay for her clothes and education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive carefully, please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please, remember, that children run from behind parked cars.

Please, don't hurt my little girl.

(Signed)

Farmer-Laborites New Targets of 'Red' Charges

Photographs purporting to show that the Minnesota Farmer-Labor party and its leader, Gov. Elmer Benson, are influenced by Communists are in the hands of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities. Among the exhibits is the picture, left above, which shows Governor Benson riding in a New York parade last August with a member of the Young Communist League near the door of his car. This picture was given the Dies committee in Washington by Steve Gadler, St. Paul consulting engineer, shown top right as he charged Communists actively direct the Farmer-Labor party. Similar testimony was given by Albert Kittock, lower right, of Minneapolis, who said he once belonged to the Communist party.

Sally Says She Won't---But She Does

"I'll pose any way you want—even stand on my head—but I won't pose with a policeman," cried Fan Dancer Sally Rand, but it was too late. Here is Sally, left, sans fans, in a Los Angeles court with Policewoman Cheryl Goodwin, center, and a reporter. Sally was in court to explain why she hadn't appeared earlier in connection with a suit brought by one Hazel Drain, who claims la Rand bit her during a scuffle in a Los Angeles theater.

Pretty Ritzzy Table Serving

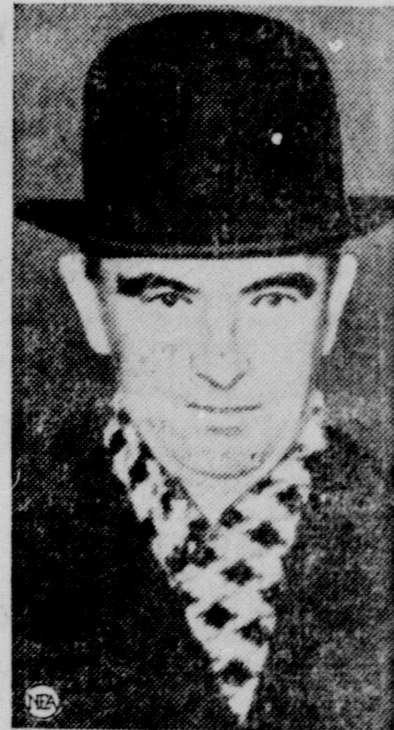

Something new and different in waiters was wealthy Amory L. Haskell, shown here pouring coffee for one of the 500 farmers who were guests of the Monmouth County Hunt and Racing Association at Haskell's Red Bank, N. J., estate. Members of the association, in hunting apparel, served as waiters and waitresses for the farmer-guests at the annual hunting meet.

Wrong Answer to Right Number

"This is the detective chief; I guess you won't want any service." Thus did Louisville's Chief Joseph Stuart, seated among a battery of bell boxes, answer incoming bookies' calls when he raided and stopped operations at the Cumberland News Service, which supplied information for 600 Louisville book makers. Acting in a reform drive, Stuart forced officials of the service to turn over the keys to their office and then made arrangements with the telephone company to curtail phone service.

Military Ruler Of the Holy Land

Proclaiming of martial law throughout the Holy Land as one of the moves to crush the bloody Arab revolt makes Sir Harold MacMichael, above, British army commander-in-chief for Palestine, virtual dictator of that country. District commissioners were replaced by military commanders on orders of Sir Harold.

At Home

Jitterbugs—Japanese style. Hot swing in Nippon. The imitative Japanese adapt themselves quickly to the western manner—whether it's the American jazz tempo or the latest in warfare. Here is a scene in a Tokyo theater with high-stepping entertainers doing the Japanese version of the Lambeth Walk—truckin' on down—the shag, or what have you.

What's 'Wetter' Than Water?---Oil!

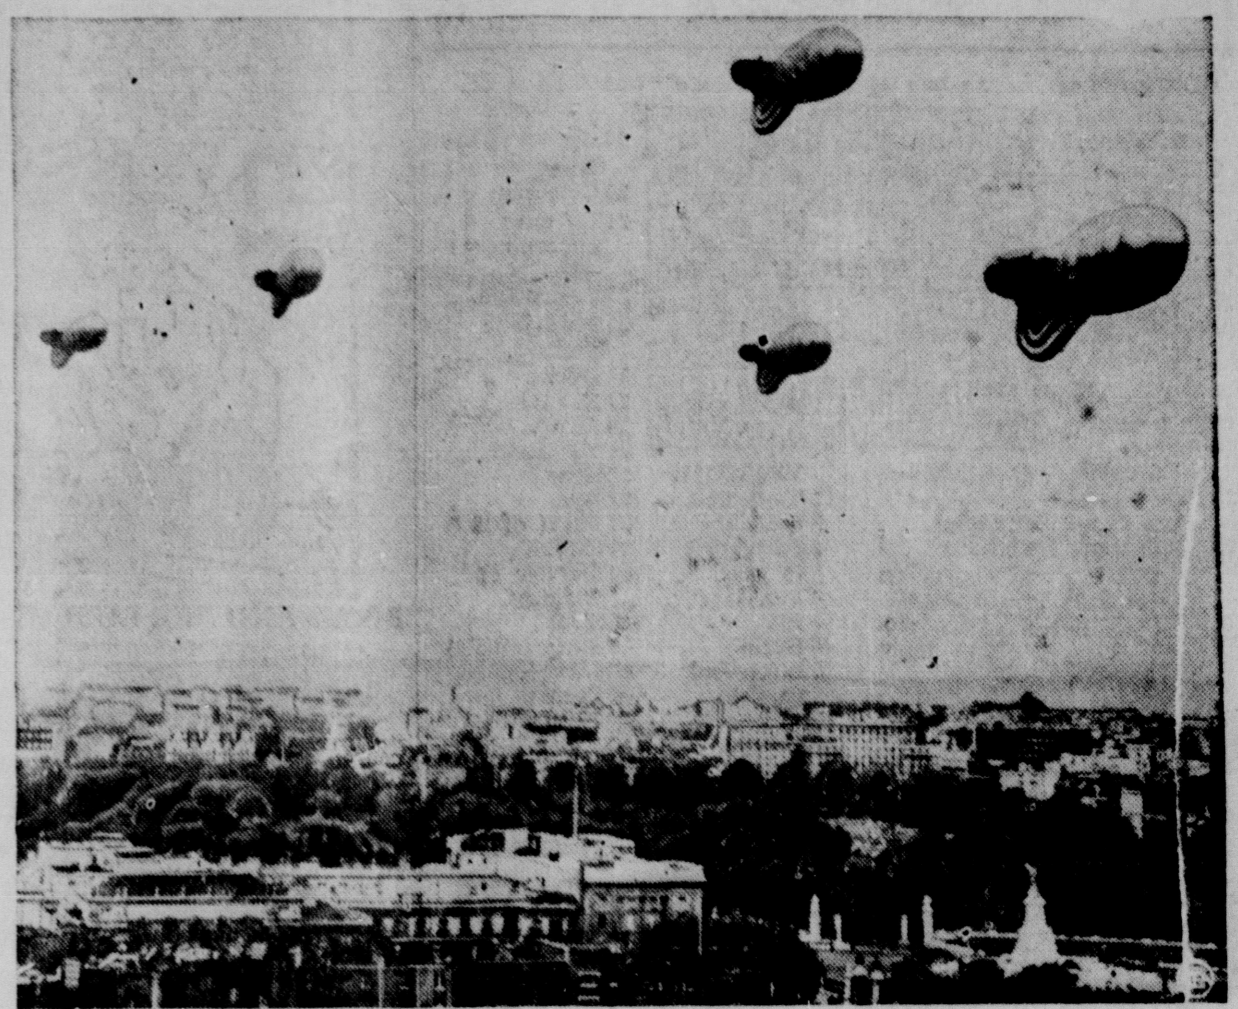

Oil is "wetter" than water as far as movie cameras are concerned, so Movie Star Fredric March "oils down" a cute member of the cast for his new picture, "Trade Winds," now in production in Hollywood. On the screen, oil drops look more like water drops than do water drops. A property man stands by to give aid should oil get in the young lovely's eye.

Did This Start the Name-Calling?

Charles Lindbergh talks to Sir Neville Henderson . . . Russians charge he talked too much, denounce what they call "lies" told the British during the war crisis about the inefficiency of the Soviet air force. The American aviator and the British ambassador to Germany are pictured at the Berlin congress of the Lillenthal Society for Aeronautical Research.

Britain's "Aerial Fence" Needs Mending

Great Britain's air defense experts conceived the idea of erecting an "aerial fence" of captive balloons trailing long grids of steel cables as a barrier to enemy bombing planes. The theory was that the invaders would run into the trailing cables or, if they flew over the "fence" they would be forced above good bombing range. In a recent demonstration five of the balloons, shown in the photo above, broke away and caused considerable damage to London houses with their trailing cables before they were recaptured. Nevertheless, the experts declared the experiment a success.

All's Fair at the Marriage Fair

Whether they swing it like the couple at the left, or cool their ardor with an ice cream cone like the ones above, French couples at the annual "Marriage Fair" at Meaux, near Paris, enjoy the fete, which is specially designed to enable marriageable young folks to pick out their future mates. Eligibles look forward each year with pleasure toward this unusual French institution.

Looking Down From a Japanese Bomber

This unusual picture from the Chinese war front shows what the world looks like to the pilot of a Japanese bombing plane. Bombs are striking around a fleet of Chinese ships in Lake Tungting near Yoyang. Great rings of water swell from the spots in the lake where the bombs miss their marks. Not all the bombs go astray, however, and a ship is seen afire in the center of the photo, and at extreme right is an oil slick where another ship has been sunk.

Arab Guerillas Harass British in Palestine

British troops striving to maintain order in Palestine are constantly harassed by bands of Arab guerillas. In the photo above, a turreted armored car is shown driving around a rock barricade erected by the terrorists to delay reinforcements sent to Tiberias. This Jewish town on the shore of the Sea of Galilee suffered a raid by Arabs in which 21 Jews were killed.

LAUNCH TOURNAMENT.

An intra-mural grade school softball tournament will start next Monday, October 24. Players in the upper four grades constituting six teams will fight it out each Monday, Wednesday and Friday for the school championship. After winning the Ogle county softball championship the boys are in great shape for this coming tournament, and some hot games are expected.

TRIO ON GRID CREW.

Rochelle has three men on the Northern Illinois Teachers' college football team this year. Olyve Krahenbuhl at end and Linne-meier and Chumansky. Krahenbuhl is a sophomore and Linne-meier and Chumansky are first year men.

OREGON DEFEATED.

Rochelle high school won from Oregon high in the homecoming football game on the local grid-iron Friday night, 14 to 7.

INSTALL EQUIPMENT.

The laundry employs six people, including George Vernick, the wash man, who has had twelve years experience as wash man in one of the large Rockford laundries. His wife, as an experienced laundress, is the shirt-finisher. Mrs. Eugene Dailey and Mrs. Serena England operate the flat ironer.

REGISTRATION OPENS.

Citizens of Rochelle, who have changed their residence or have moved to this city recently, are reminded that on Tuesday, November 1, at eight o'clock, registration will be held at the city hall on the above mentioned date.

LADIES ENTERTAIN.

An entertainment, "Rhythm Week," will be given by the Lutheran Ladies Aid Society on Thursday, October 27, at eight o'clock in the basement of the church. The public is invited to attend.

TO VIEW PICTURES.

The local American Legion Post No. 403 has been invited to view the colored pictures of the Los Angeles convention held recently. A special bus has been chartered for the trip, and those desiring to view these pictures are asked to register at the Townsend jewelry store. The views will be presented on Tuesday evening, October 25, at Elgin.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN.

George Schabacker, dean of the local real estate fraternity, celebrated his 83rd birthday on Friday. Miss Carolyn Klein has taken a stenographic position with the Kelmaker Corporation. The first fall meeting of members of the Art department of the Rochelle Woman's club will be held at the home of Mrs. A. R. Bogue on Monday afternoon, October 24, at 2:45 P. M.

Mrs. Arthur Beebe of Stillman Valley, will read selected poetry. Mrs. Beebe needs no introduction to Woman's club members who heard her last spring at the county conference. The program committee, with Mrs. Earl Breyman, chairman, Mrs. C. C. Ellis and Mrs. Boltman, as members, will continue the plans for the 1938-39 season.

Mrs. Raymond Law will sing solos, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Lazier. They will be served by the following committee: Mrs. Roy Westin, Miss Lucille Kelley, Mrs. R. J. Caron, Mrs. John Russell, Mrs. Harry Ingleson, Mrs. J. G. Walker, Mrs. C. H. Allen and Mrs. C. A. Hills.

Mrs. J. A. Herrmann is the general chairman in charge of the public card party sponsored by the ladies of St. Patrick's Catholic church at the school auditorium on Monday, October 24th.

Mrs. Dave Sweeney, Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, Mrs. Caroline Schnorr, Mrs. Frank Detig, Mrs. Henry Coto, Mrs. Eugene Tighe, Mrs. L. Rochelle and Mary McLean comprise the committee. Mrs. Hector Cafon, Mrs. Claude Herrmann and Miss Garriety are in charge of ticket sales.

Soar plays at tackle and Hetland at end.

Two games have been scheduled for the freshman team with oil rivals of the Grinnell college football team will travel to Mount Vernon on October 29 to battle the Cornell first year team, while the Cornell freshmen will travel to Cedar Rapids on Nov. 5 to play the Coe college yearlings.

The above two games are all the Midwest Conference, of which Cornell is a member, allows to each of its member schools. However, the Grinnell team at Cornell is seeing plenty of action against the varsity in practice sessions.

Miss Muriel Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lane, who reside south of Elmond, and Clarence Varney, of this city, were married Saturday, October 22nd.

A school of instruction for officers of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held in Ambloy, October 24.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

RAIN AND SNOW OF NEXT WINTER.

Rain and Snow for Next Winter.

How much rain and snow are we going to have next winter?

Thousands the country over have asked this question. So, this week we give you a special map showing the precipitation over the United States from the first of November to the first of April. The letters indicate that farmers in sections of the Middle West are worried over the possibilities of another drought in 1939. They point out that many streams are below stage for this season, which indicates that sub-soil moisture is depleted, and if there should fail to be heavy rainfall during the winter, dry conditions are a possibility next spring.

Our map shows the course of the Gulf Stream of the Air during the winter. It is much simplified, of course, but attempts to show the general movements of future wet winds. This Gulf Stream of the Air is our source of rain. After crossing the Atlantic Ocean it moves over the continent of North America. Most of the time it flows via the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico, then from Alabama to Maryland, and along the New England coast to Newfoundland, and from there to Europe. At times it swings across Mexico to the Pacific Ocean and southern California.

We have worked out the two general paths that the Gulf Stream of the Air will take this winter. One path, as you can see from the map, swings north out of the Caribbean region toward Georgia, then turns sharply back on itself and flows up the Atlantic Coast, mostly offshore.

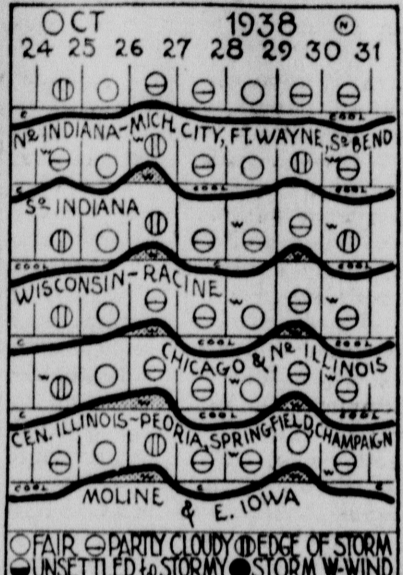

This will give good rain over the southeastern States, and moderately good rain along the northern Atlantic seaboard. When the Gulf Stream of the Air swings farther west it passes over the Mexican tableland, over the Pacific Ocean and back to Sonora, Mexico, and then through Arizona, New Mexico, southern California and obliquely to the region north of Lake Superior. This leaves a strip of strong evaporation.

tion, with probably insufficient precipitation, from Louisiana to Ohio. There will be another area of excessive evaporation in Washington, Oregon and northern California.

WEATHER QUESTIONS

Question: Will June and July of 1939 be dry in Texas? J. M. C. Answer: June will be a period of evaporation, but July has better prospects of rain.

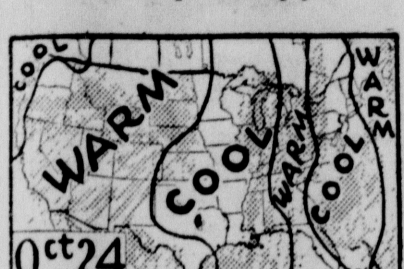

Question: What will the rain be in the spring and summer of 1939 in Nebraska? G. S. Answer: Spring will tend toward dryness; late summer will have fair moisture.

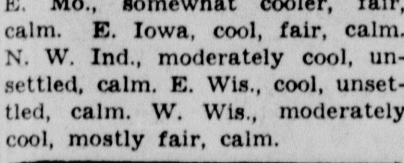

Question: Is the time during full moon the best time to brand cattle? This is a much discussed question in our locality. Mrs. A. S. Answer: Branding is a nervous shock to the animal and had better be done when the weather is to remain favorable for a few days, when neither cold nor storm will further sap the animal's vitality. When the full moon is plainly visible, it means you have settled weather, but when the sky is much overcast, it means the cattle may have to endure storms before the brands heal.

Model and Story of Saturn. Long range weather fans! Telescope fans! Here is a chance to make a model of the planet Saturn. This planet is thought to raise the 33-year sun spot cycle known as the "Famine Cycle." It is the planet with the ring, utterly different from everything on earth or in the sky. A model of this planet is interesting and easy to make. Prof. Selby Maxwell has prepared plans and an interesting story which will enable you to make a model of Saturn. These plans will be sent to you free with the compliments of this newspaper. Just address your request to Prof. Selby Maxwell, care of this newspaper, enclosing a 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

the open directly toward the flock of geese. Apparently the birds thought a prairie wolf had bounded forth, for they immediately took off and left me standing out of range and in bewilderment.

The geese wasted no time in flying high—and they took a different route than we anticipated, for my partners needed binoculars to locate them after the first circle. But that's the way of stalking geese—one never knows just what they will do, but when a brace of these birds are finally bagged the thrill is all the greater. Luck to you, especially if you try stalking them.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Probation After Death" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 23.

The Golden Text was, "God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil" (Eccl. 12:14).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; that they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate; Laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life" (1 Timothy 6:17-19).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When being is understood, Life will be recognized as neither material nor finite, but is infinite,—as God, universal good; and the belief that life, or mind, was ever in a finite form, or good in evil, will be destroyed" (p. 76).

GREEN-YOLKED EGGS

Topeka, Kans. —(AP)—Walter Laundon can make his hens lay yellow, red or green yolks in their eggs.

Shortening a hen on her grain ration and feeding her green vegetables makes the yolks green. An abundance of carrots in the diet makes yolks more yellow than they should be. Red yolks come from diets of chemically treated grains.

All of yolks taste about the same, said Laundon.

The Battle of New Orleans was fought after the signing of the Ghent Peace Treaty with England at the close of the War of 1812. News of the signing arrived too late to prevent the battle.

A megaparsec, the distance a beam of light travels in 3,260,000 years, is the largest unit of distance employed by astronomers.

People's Column

BANKING AMENDMENT

Chicago, Oct. 13, 1938. Editor, Dixon Telegraph, Dixon, Illinois.

In your People's Column I notice a number of questions propounded concerning the proposed Constitutional Amendment which is to have the consideration of the voters at the general election November 8. I am happy to answer these questions and I hope you can find space to publish these answers:

- One of the important reasons for ratifying the proposed Amendment is to enable our General Assembly to completely revise our State Banking Act so that every community in Illinois sufficiently large to support a bank will have banking facilities.
- Citizens who compose the Constitutional Amendment Committee and thousands of other citizens in Illinois who are interested in our State are concerned when there are communities without banking facilities. They recognize that a community without a bank is like a community without telephones, electric lights or good roads.
- The proposal is being supported by citizens of all walks of life and is wholly non-partisan in character. The proposed Amendment is not the special measure of politicians.
- The pamphlet which was mailed by the County Clerk was provided by the Secretary of State under the mandatory provisions of a state statute which requires that such a pamphlet shall be prepared and mailed whenever there is a proposal to amend the State Constitution. The tax payers paid for the printing and mailing of this pamphlet. Other expenses of the campaign are being borne by voluntary contributions made to the committee of citizens which is sponsoring the Amendment.

5. When one gives a mortgage on his property it is to secure a promise to pay a specific amount of money. His liability never goes beyond what he promised to pay. Therefore, there is no double liability in such case.

6. We can have branch banking in Illinois under the present Constitution if the Banking Act were amended to provide for it. The ratification of the proposed Amendment will not change this situation.

7. The ratification of the proposed Amendment will in no way change the method of amending our Constitution. It will change the method of amending our State Banking Act. Now, all amendments must be submitted by a majority of both Houses of the General Assembly and approved by a majority of the voters at the next general election. Under the proposed Amendment the General Assembly by two-thirds vote of the elected members of each House can amend our Banking Act. The proposed Amendment gives opportunity to meet emergencies and yet prevents hasty action.

8. The proposed amendment has nothing whatever to do with the subject of taxes. The amendment merely permits the State of Illinois to modernize its banking laws and to strengthen its State banking system. This is in the interest of the whole people and not of any privileged class.
